Worker, Boss, Salesman, Consumer—They All Get a Part in Drafting Wage-Hour Standards

Resurrection Is Central Message of the Christian Faith

The dramatic story of events leading up to the first Easter is here retold from the Gospels by Frederick C. Grant, D.D., Professor of Biblical Theology at Union Theological Seminary, New York. The reference at the end of each installment is to a Gospel account.

By FREDERICK C. GRANT, D.D.
Written for the AP Feature Service
The conspiracy against Jesus reached its climax Friday. In the morning, the priests handed Jesus over to the Jewish King, and therefore was a dangerous agitator—one who would seize his first opportunity to rouse the nation to arms and throw off the Roman yoke.

Pilate's only claim to remember is his connection with Jesus. He was merely the minor of Roman government—not especially brutal or unkind, above other men in his position, but no shining light of honor and integrity, either.

He had a hard task, to represent Rome among a subject people, to keep order without too much show of force or an expensive army of the Jews contented and submissive, and the flow of tribute moving steadily to Rome.

He Keeps Silent
No doubt he had no relish for the case brought to him by the priests that Friday morning. He saw through the situation at once and recognized that it was "for envy the chief priests had delivered him up."

And so, with his rough sense of justice, but with his eye on the populace and the duty of keeping order in an over-crowded city, he tried at first to release the prisoner by making light of the charges.

"Art thou the King of the Jews?" To ask the question seemed to be to answer it. Nothing could be more preposterous! This quiet, silent Gullian claiming to be the lawful ruler of Palestine! Certainly there could be Under the wage-hour act, the present minimum is 25 cents an hour. This is to be stepped up automatically to 30 cents next October, and in 1945 is to advance to 40 cents. The industry committees are trying to work out scales somewhere between the 30-cent level of next October and the 40-cent level of 1945, so that 1945 will not bring too great and sudden dislocation to low-wage industries.

So far, seven of these committees have gone into operation, and two have submitted their recommendations. The committee for the cotton, silk, rayon, and synthetic textile industry has called for a 32½-cent rate, and the woolen textile committee has come out for 36 cents. Committees now holding sessions are those for the apparel, hosiery, hats, millinery, and boot and shoe industries.

Machinery Is Significant

When Commissioner Andrews receives a committee recommendation, he may approve it and embody the recommended rate in a wage order. That rate then becomes the legal minimum wage for that industry until 1940. The commissioner may send the report back to the committee for revision, or he may set up a new committee and start a fresh. He cannot, however, make changes in the recommendation himself.

Now the mere fact that some 1,645,000 workers are employed in the industries for which committees have already been selected is not the striking thing about this venture, nor is the fact that approximately 133,000 will receive wage increases under the two recommendations already made—if these recommendations get Andrews' approval.

What is really significant is the kind of operation which the Wage and Hour Division is attempting.

Each industry committee must by law consist of an equal number of representatives from each of three different groups—employers, employees, and the public. The representatives are chosen by the Wage and Hour Division.

For groundwork, the committee is given statistics and economic data prepared by the Bureau of Labor Statistics. This material is pretty extensive; for the textiles committee, for instance, it comprised a 154-page printed book containing an extremely detailed cross-section study of the whole industry.

Everybody Participates

This digested, the committee calls witnesses—workers, retailers, wholesalers, economists, heads of trade associations, and so on. Then the employer and employee members of the committee speak their minds. In the end, after a tremendous amount of informal discussion, argument, and cross-questioning, the committee votes on the various wage rates which have been suggested until the majority is able to agree on one.

Several things are happening here. For one, capital and labor are getting another lesson in the art of sitting down around a council table and going over their problems, seeing each other's point of view and looking at the industry as a whole.

For another, the fact that the general public has an equal concern in these problems with capital and labor is getting practical recognition. For still another, the responsibility which rests on the consuming public is being stressed—its responsibility, that is, in KANSAS CITY, Mo.—(AP)—Thomas J. Pendergast, boss of the powerful Kansas City Democratic organization, was indicted Friday by a federal grand jury on charges of violating the income tax laws.

Named with him in a separate indictment on similar charges was R. E. O'Malley, who, as state insurance superintendent, engineered a 9-million-dollar fire insurance rate compromise in 1935, which was investigated by the grand jury.

One count asserted Pendergast failed to report $260,000 in income in 1936. Another count charged he evaded taxation on $55,000 in 1935.

Easter Nears as World Sees Great Armament Race

In Obedience to God Lies Only Hope of Modern World

SERVICE AT 6:30 A. M.

Entire Community Urged to Attend Sunrise Worship Here

This is another of a series of articles contributed by the various pastors of Hope, published this week by The Star, in behalf of the union sunrise service in Hope High School stadium at 6:30 o'clock Easter Sunday.

As we witness today the great armament race in history, one stands on the sidelines wondering where it will lead our world and how it will all end, and as we look about us it leaves us somewhat depressed.

The first Christian duty, however, is to look up and not around. And the devout soul does so he seems to hear Christ saying through Paul "Put on the whole armor of God," and in obedience to this forgotten exhortation lies the only hope of our modern world.

This Easter season may well be a challenge to "spiritual" rearmament without which there can be no moral cleansing, no national purification, no economic emancipation, no personal integrity, no world peace, no unselfish service for these things can not be, except there is a genuine vitalized spiritual life to serve as an adequate foundation.

Our religion is not material nor of man, but spiritual and of God, we worship not an ideal, not a philosophy, not a creed, but a living Christ, who is the author, the source, and the power of a life that is immortal.

This is the message of this blessed season which appropriately comes in the spring time of the year.

The entire community is urged and invited to participate in Hope's third annual Easter Sunrise Service this next Sunday at the Hope High School stadium at 6:30 a. m.

The Rev. W. R. Hamilton, pastor of First Baptist church, will deliver the address, and other local ministers will participate. As the service has been planned, it is not expected that it will last more than one hour.

The complete program will be published in the Saturday issue of Hope Star. This community is indebted to Roy Anderson and his committee for their fine preliminary work which we confidently hope will issue in a fine challenging, heart-stirring, and uplifting service of praise, thanks, and worship.

A 1939 survey indicated the largest supply of feed grains and hay per animal in the United States in more than ten years.

Albanians Hurl Back 7 Landing Attempts at Port of Durazzo

FLOUT ULTIMATUM

But New Delegation Goes to Durazzo in Attempt to End Warfare

TIRANA.—(AP)—Warfare broke out Friday between Albanian and Italian troops after the trained forces of Premier Mussolini landed at four Adriatic ports under the protection of warships and bombing planes.

The forces of King Zog, small in number but bitter fighters, resisted strongly and thrust back the initial attempts by the Italians to gain a foothold on land.

King Zog appealed to his people to fight "to the last drop of blood" against Italian invasion, Havas (French news agency) reported at Belgrade.

Seven times, the radio said, Italian troops tried to disembark at Durazzo, but each time they were thrown back. Durazzo was said to be in ruins after bombardments.

Official reports said "Valona," bombarded from sea and air, was burning, but the Italians had been unable to land at that port city.

It was stated, however, that the Italians occupied Sarana, at the southern tip of Albania, close to the frontier with Greece, and at Saint Joan.

Peace negotiations were reported under way at noon by a delegation which, a well-informed source said, went to Durazzo to arrange the end of hostilities.

The cabinet was summoned to the royal palace. There were reports that Albania had rejected an Italian ultimatum.

Easter in America

of a restless and unhappy world. Here we are at least not deafened by the shattering explosions of war and hatred. And here, too, no bell is silenced.

Fortunate are we that on Easter, any believer in the Christian faith, no matter what his sect or creed, is free to go in his own way to mark the day according to his conscience.

Such freedom seems elemental to Americans, so elemental that we seldom think of it at all. Once we had reason to hope that it was so. But not today.

Today such freedom stands like a beacon light in a dark world beset with intolerance and hatred.

We believe we are right in our tolerance, so right that some day in our tolerance, so right that some day the world will return to the ideal of toleration to which we cling.

But on this Easter the world is such that only the strong can have faith in the message of rebirth and the triumph of good over evil, life over death.

It is such a world as creates Thomases, modern prototypes of the doubter who, told that his Master had arisen from the tomb, said, "Except I shall see in His hands the print of the nails, and put my finger into the print of the nails, and thrust my hand into His side, I will not believe."

Jesus then appeared to Thomas and said, "Be not faithless, but believing." And Thomas, seeing, answered, "My Lord and my God."

And Jesus answered him, "Thomas, because thou hast seen Me, thou hast believed: blessed are they that have not seen, and yet have believed."

Those words seem spoken for today. Easter this year demands the faith that will believe, even though little enough may be seen of love and truth and life, and all too much of hatred and lies and death.

The world needs the strength, the steadfastness which can believe in life ultimately triumphant over death, good over evil, and light over darkness, even though at the moment death and evil and darkness are so painful present.

To such faith, the bells of Easter call to Americans—

Cancer Danger Can Be Reduced By Intelligent Watchfulness

If a man is over 40, he has one chance in eight or ten of succumbing to cancer. In women over 40 the chance is even more serious. This does not mean that cancer is increasing. It merely means that more of us are living longer, and that cancer is essentially a disease of advanced years.

Moreover, there is no use in worrying about the fact that cancer may be responsible for the deaths of more people now than used to die of this disease. It is much better to be intelligent and to make up your mind to help the doctor to find cancer in its early stages when it can be brought under control.

First remember that false modesty may prevent the prompt reporting of personal symptoms which are intimate. Such false modesty may thus menace life itself.

Second, make up your mind to have an examination at least once each year after you have passed 40.

Third, make up your mind to know more about cancer.

If you do not have easy access to information, write to the American Society for the Control of Cancer in New York City at 350 Madison Avenue. This society has material freely available for all who are interested enough to ask for it.

Concerning the details of the prevention of cancer Dr. Clarence C. Little has summarized a few simple rules:

1. Form and maintain habits of mouth hygiene. Wash the mouth, clean the teeth and gums. Remove or correct jagged teeth. Correct all artificial denture that presses, rubs or chafes. If smoking irritates your lip or tongue, stop it temporarily or permanently if necessary.
2. Discuss with your doctor the advisability of removing warts or moles, especially deeply pigmented ones and those that are rubbed or irritated by clothing or during shaving.
3. Keep the skin clean and protected from undue or excessively prolonged exposure to sun and wind.
4. Do not abuse your stomach. Avoid extremely hot food, overeating or any type of food or drink that causes distress.
5. Establish and maintain regular habits of emptying the bowels; avoid constipation.
6. Avoid tight clothing which rubs or chafes, especially brassieres which to be sure that that any tears or injuries to the womb have been repaired. Avoid the use of the old-fashioned metal or bone pessaries which are inserted into the neck of the womb to prevent disease or conception. The rubber variety of pessary is harmless.

8. Drink plenty of water to avoid the unnecessary irritating effects of too concentrated urine on both the kidneys and bladder.

A Book a Day

A Novel Marches With Burgoyne

You would have to comb all history for another story combining the comedy and the tragedy that marked the fateful march of the British down from Canada through the American wilderness in 1777. That was a march intended to deliver the final smashing blow at colonial rebellion, but it turned out instead the most decisive victory for the colonists in the war.

Many things hampered the British, of course, including total unfamiliarity with the terrain, cartloads of champagne and bouffant furniture and finally hundreds of women. "The British never did get their orders straightened out. So you can imagine the scene, and if you can't, Bruce Lancaster does it for you in a novel as colorful as the gaudy British uniforms themselves. "Guns of Burgoyne" (Stokes; $2.50).

What Lancaster has done is tell the story from the English viewpoint. He picks out a handsome young Hessian mercenary in command of some of "Gentleman Johnny's" lumbering guns, and through him traces the whole fantastic march from the taking of Fort Mifflin to the final blood and thunder at Bennington and Freeman's Farm. There are some incomparable scenes and Lancaster seems to have done ample justice to most of them.

But it is this new touch, this telling of the story from Burgoyne's blundering side that distinguishes the book. There is a minimum of fiction in the scene that new characters are created, chronologies are changed. You have Kurt Ahrens' love story, of course, but beyond that Lancaster sticks scrupulously close to the facts. You feel that even the most ardent British historian could find no fault with the record. All in all, then, "Guns of Burgoyne" is a welcome addition to the growing list of American historical novels. Certainly there have been none more exciting, and it is as well-written as most.—P. G. F.

Nashville Prepares

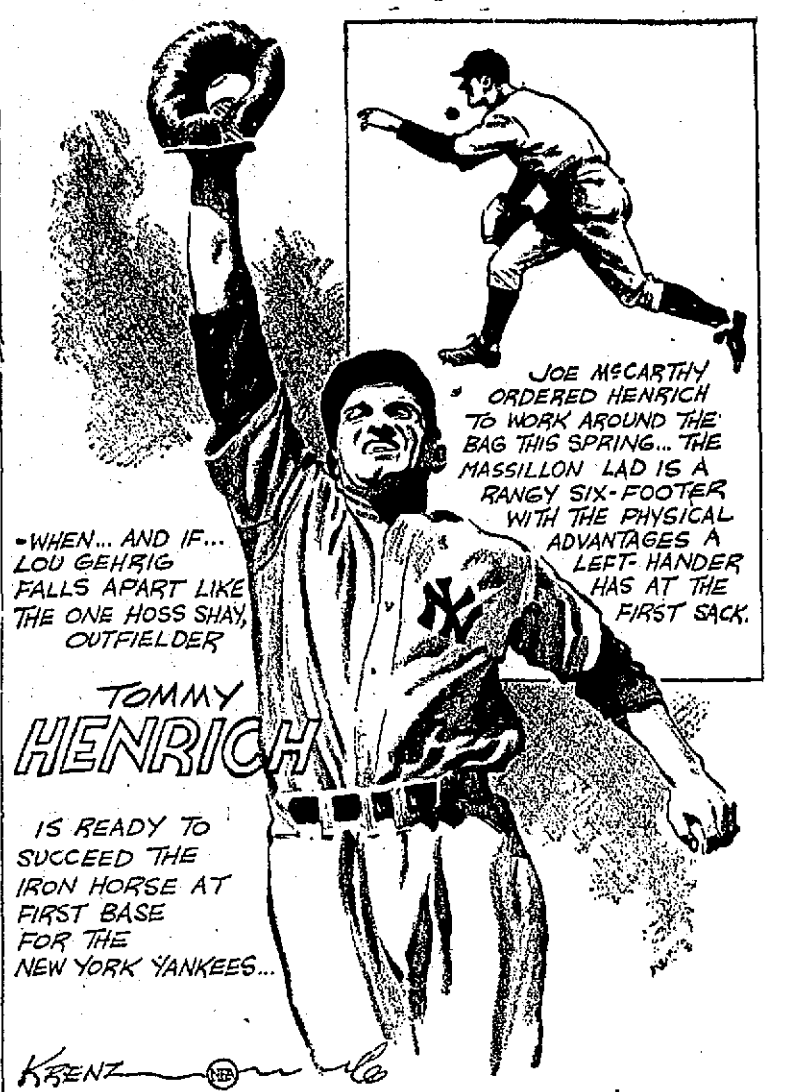

NASHVILLE, Ark.—The first track and field meet here this season will be held this (Friday) afternoon at Scrapers Field, beginning at 3 o'clock, when the Hope and DeQueen teams will come here to compete with Nashville in a triangular meet.

Despite the soft track, occasioned by the excessive rains, the local track and field squads have been getting fairly good work-outs, and it is hoped that the track will be in condition for good races.

A feature of the meet will be exhibition runs by Oris Erwin, L. S. U. athlete and former Nashville distance runner and football star. Erwin won the state distance event last year, going away, and is showing up well in his running for the Louisiana University. He will run both the 440 and 880 yard distances here Friday, and may also run the mile.

Because of the increased interest in track and field events in this section, and also because of the approaching District Ten meet, in which all three of these teams will compete, it is expected a large crowd of fans will attend the triangular meet.

Yankees Uncover Bright Talent for First Base as Gehrig Fade Out Looms

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Service Sports Editor
ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—His many admirers might just as well save for a later date the tears they're shedding for Henry Louis Gehrig.

The Iron Man hardly has fallen apart like the one-hoss shay.

Lou Gehrig has looked bad on other spring training trips... always was a slow starter.

But even a Gehrig can't go on forever, and the fact that he would be missed no more than was the amazing Babe Ruth before him, once more stresses the thoroughness of the Yankees organization.

Outfielder Tommy Henrich perhaps would have been an improvement over Gehrig at first base last season.

Henrich is a rangy six-footer with the physical advantages a left-handed thrower has at first base. The Massillon youngster fooled around the bag in 1938 and Joe McCarthy ordered him to work there this spring. He filled in very acceptably the other afternoon in the first full game of any description that Gehrig has missed.

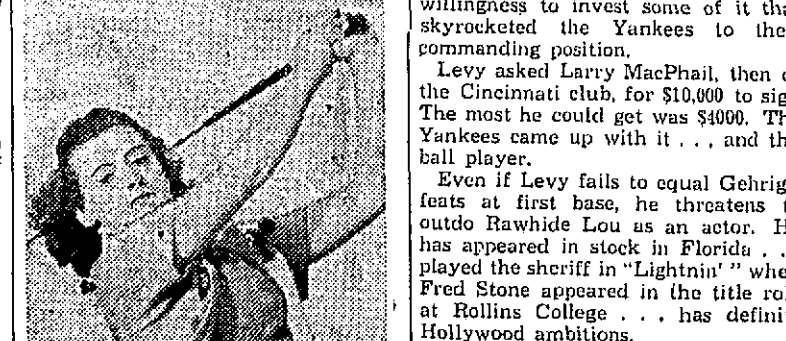

Wally Pipp in June, 1925.

Yankee Outfield Could Do Without Him

Henrich has the arm, speed, and baseball intelligence. All he has to do is perfect infield plays.

Nor is Henrich needed in the gardens with the masterful DiMaggio, Jake.

Future Queen

Even if Levy fails to equal Gehrig's feats at first base, he threatens to outdo Rawhide Lou as an actor. He has appeared in stock in Florida... played the sheriff in "Lightnin'" when Fred Stone appeared in the title role at Rollins College... has definite Hollywood ambitions.

Converted Pitcher Gets Chance, Too

Fred Collins is another heir-presumptive to Gehrig's throne.

A left-handed pitcher with Binghamton last trip, he will be that club's first baseman this spring. Paul Krichell, one of the foxiest Yankee forgers, says Collins has it all... including abnormal power at the plate.

Len Gabor, a large young man who does everything well left-handed, is more polished right now than Levy.

Gabor, also rehearsing with Newark, made the required number of extra base hits in batting .312 for Seattle.

But those closest to the situation consider Levy and Collins the superior prospects.

How well fixed the Yankees are for first basemen is stressed by the fact that no one mentions Babe Dahlgren, a grand utility man who has developed as a hitter since playing brilliantly throughout an entire season at first base for the Boston Red Sox.

It took Jimmy Fox to run Dahlgren off the station in the Hub.

Anyway, the alert and efficient Yankees won't be caught short-handed when Old Man Gehrig, not yet 36, finally does let down.

Experts say pert, bare-legged Jean Cline, 14-year-old school-girl from Wilmington, Ill., soon will be one of goldfod's queens in ability as well as looks.

Jean, who is new to tournament golf, drives better than 200 yards. She shot an 85 in the Mid-South tournament at Southern Pines, N. C.

District Softball Tourney Planned

Southwest Arkansas Teams Will Meet in Hope August 16, 17, 18

The Southwest Arkansas District Softball Tournament, sponsored by the Amateur Softball Association, governing body of Amateur Softball will be held in Hope on August 16, 17 and 18, it was announced by Earl W. Erion, District Softball Commissioner.

Managers and players who join with the Amateur Softball Association are protected wherever organized softball is played.

If a player jumps a contract with an association team he is ineligible to participate in organized softball until the National Commissioner has re-instated him.

An example of this was the penalizing of Ed "King Kong" Kelly for jumping a contract with a team in Florida.

Membership in the association cost $2 per team until the deadline of June 15.

After that date teams who want to compete for the state championship have to pay $3 for that privilege.

When a team pays the membership fee it is automatically eligible to compete in the local elimination tournament.

Under the new rules for this year, only two teams from any town will be eligible to compete in the district tournament.

Those teams are selected by a local tournament. The winners of a local tournament are allowed to pick up any players from the defeated teams in that tournament to help them compete in the district tournament.

the matter of wage levels and profit margins as well as its interest in every-day retail costs.

It isn't all sweetness and light, of course. The different parties follow their own economic interests, just as human beings do anywhere, and there is nothing in any of this to hint that the lion and lamb are about to bump together amicably. But the communists are doing the job they were set up to do.

They are sitting down side by side—C. I. O. leader sandwiched between factory owner and college professor—to thresh things out, to reach some sort of fair solution which will benefit the underpaid worker without either driving the owner out of business or skyrocketing prices out of the consumer's reach.

no danger of insurrection from such a source.

But the chief priests, who were Jesus' real enemies and were determined to see that he did not escape, began accusing him of many things. To all these charges, Jesus continued to maintain perfect silence, so Mark, the earliest Gospel, tells the story.

Pilate tried another plan. It was a custom to release a prisoner each year at festival time—one whom the populace should choose. Perhaps the people would rescue Jesus from his accusers, if he proposed to release him to them.

But the priests headed him off from this plan by stirring up the mob to cry out for another prisoner—another Jesus; in fact, Jesus Bar Abbas—who had been thrown in prison for murder committed during an insurrection.

And so they cried out, "Release Bar Abbas!"

When Pilate replied, "What about Jesus of Nazareth?" they shouted: "Let him be crucified!"

Let him be crucified! He made no

Benny Dickson Is Slain by "G" Men

Kidnap and Robber Betrayed to Government Agents by Woman

ST. LOUIS.—(AP)—Outlaw Benny Dickson was shot to death here Thursday night by special agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation as he grabbed for two heavy revolvers in his pockets.

A tip sent officers to the shabby hamburger stand where Dickson was eating.

"Stick 'em up," shouted Gerald B. Norris, local chief of the F. B. I., as Dickson walked out of the cafe. "We're federal agents and you're under arrest," Norris added, his men closing in on the Mid-Western desperado.

Dickson's hands flashed toward his guns, but a hail of slugs cut him down.

As in the death of notorious John Dillinger, a woman was credited with witnesses with having trapped Dickson. Bystanders said a "woman in brown" accompanied Dickson into the hamburger stand.

As the young outlaw walked out, another "customer" said to the woman in brown, "Was that the right man?" She nodded, and a few seconds later Dickson lay dead.

Dickson was wanted for the kidnaping of Henry Mett and Claude Minnis near Leonidas, Mich., on November 28, 1938, on a charge he took them across the state line to Griffith, Ind., and stole their automobile.

Three days later and accompanied by his wife, Norris said, Dickson robbed the Brookings branch of the Northwest Security bank of Sioux Falls, S. D., of $17,000. The robbery of the Corn Exchange bank of Elkton, S. D., on August 25, 1938, also was listed on Dickson's record.

Women Visit Tomb

Some distance away certain women disciples watched what was going on.

They had followed him, along with their husbands, brothers, or sons from Galilee; and now, women-like, they prepared to do the last sad duties for the departed. Spices they would bring, and ointments, as soon as the Sabbath (from sundown Friday to sundown Saturday) was past, and prepare the body for permanent burial.

And so they came, "early on the first day of the week, at sunrise," to the tomb, the question presented itself, "How shall we move the stone?"

But when they got there, they looked, and behold, the stone was rolled away!

Stranger still, there was a young man sitting in the sepulchre, wearing a white robe; and he said to them, "Do not be amazed! You are looking for Jesus the Nazarene, who was crucified. He is not here—he is risen! See, here is the place where they laid him."

That is the story in our oldest Gospel. But there were many stories of the Resurrection, as there were many to whom the Risen Jesus showed himself. Another, and one of the most beautiful, is the appearance to the two disciples on the way to Emmaus, a village west of Jerusalem. They did not recognize him at first, Luke says,

Law Thought Dead May Be Revived

Amended Sewing Machine Tax Bill Is Bill of Mystery

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—A bill by Senator Lucien Coleman, of Lepanto, to amend a 54-year-old statute taxing sewing-machine agents, was found Friday in the "dead bill" file of the legislature.

House and senate journal records reflected that the bill received sufficient votes for passage.

Attaches of the governor's office said the bill had never been sent there for action by the executive.

The journals showed it passed the senate 29-0 March 2, and received 60 affirmative and 17 negative votes in the house March 8. The status of the measure remained in doubt.

Invading Fascists

Hull telephoned President Roosevelt at Warm Springs, Ga., Friday, and talked to him at great length on the situation created by Italy's invasion of Albania.

The telephone call, the second in 12 hours, dealt with the possible effects on the relations of the United States with both countries.

Poland Joins British

LONDON, Eng.—(AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain welded Poland into the French-British anti-aggression front Thursday and took steps to purge Britain of German spies. Then he left for Scotland on a fishing trip.

Sir Samuel Hoare, the home secretary, disclosed a German spy hunt had been going on in England, informing the House that three alleged Nazi spies had been expelled from the country within the past few weeks.

The length of the prime minister's vacation will depend on the international situation, momentarily tensest in the Adriatic. It still was remembered here, on the twenty-second anniversary of the United States' entry into the World war, that that conflict broke out during a British bank holiday.

Chamberlain arranged for immediate recall of Parliament in event of an emergency and assured the country that all necessary precautions were being taken.

Polish Foreign Minister Beck concluded his visit with an inspection of British naval power, bound now to help defend Poland's independence under the reciprocal pledge which supplants the one-way pledge Chamberlain disclosed to the House of Commons last Friday.

France, a partner with Britain in the guidance to help defend Polish independence, previously had a mutual defense pact with Poland.

The Department of Agriculture in 1939 undertook a program to encourage the production of fiber flax in the United States.
